

| PROJECT EMPATHY MAP                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Senario                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Target Audience                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| A new fitness startup wants to launch a fitness application for busy office professionals who struggle to find time for exercise. Before designing the product, the team must understand the user's challenges, motivations, behaviors, and frustrations. | Demographics<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Age: 25–40 years</li><li>Employment Status: Full-time professionals</li><li>Work Hours: 40–60+ hours per week</li><li>Technology Usage: Regular smartphone users</li><li>Fitness Experience: Beginner to intermediate</li></ul> Characteristics<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Work long hours.</li><li>Frequently attend meetings.</li><li>Experience stress and fatigue.</li><li>Spend extended periods sitting.</li><li>Want to stay healthy but have limited time.</li><li>Prefer convenient and efficient solutions.</li></ul> |

| User Persona                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| See                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Feel                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Colleagues working long hours.</li><li>Fitness advertisements on social media.</li><li>Gym membership promotions.</li><li>Long daily schedules and calendars filled with meetings.</li><li>Health-related content encouraging exercise.</li></ul> | Stressed. Tired. Overwhelmed. Concerned about long-term health. Frustrated by lack of time. Hopeful for a simple fitness solution.                                                             |
| Think                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Do                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| "I know I should exercise more.""I simply don't have enough time.""Work takes up most of my day.""My health is slowly suffering.""I wish there was an easier solution."                                                                                      | Works 40–60 hours per week. Commutes to and from work. Sits for long periods. Uses a smartphone regularly. Skips workouts due to lack of time. Prioritizes work responsibilities over fitness. |

Name: Sarah Williams

Age: 32

Occupation: Project Manager

Office Hour: 50 hr per week

Bio

Sarah works in a fast-paced corporate environment. Her days are filled with meetings, deadlines, emails, and team coordination. Although she values her health, she struggles to maintain a fitness routine because of her demanding schedule.

Goals

- Reduce stress.
- Improve physical health.
- Increase daily energy.
- Relieve body aches from prolonged sitting.
- Find quick and effective workouts.

Frustrations

- Most fitness programs require too much time.
- Gym visits are difficult to schedule.
- Fitness apps can be overly complicated.
- She often feels exhausted after work.
- Maintaining consistency is challenging.

"If there was a fitness app that only required five minutes a day, I would use it consistently."

| User Pain Point                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Key Insight                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. Lack of TimeLong work hours leave little opportunity for exercise.2. Mental ExhaustionUsers feel drained after work and struggle to start workouts.3. Limited Access to GymsBusy schedules make gym attendance difficult.4. Complex Fitness AppsMany apps contain unnecessary features and distractions.5. Physical DiscomfortLong periods of sitting cause body aches and stiffness. | The user's biggest challenge is not a lack of interest in fitness. The primary barrier is the perception that exercise requires more time than they can realistically dedicate. This insight suggests that future design solutions should focus on short, simple, and accessible workouts that fit naturally into a busy professional's daily routine. |

| Research Conclusion                                                                                                              |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Busy professionals do not reject fitness; they reject fitness solutions that demand too much time, effort, or commitment. |